- In the afternoon of 28 July, a KVP outguard numbering between 100 and 150 soldiers wearing black-bordered red epaulets was seen at the intersection of Heidekampsweg and Wohlgemuth Strasse. The troops were quartered in an old shed and four tents. A truck which arrived at the place carrying 45 soldiers armed with Soviet carbines had a triangle as technical symbol. A captain stated that 20,000 KVPs would be employed in East Berlin. He said that they were two infantry divisions and border troops.

- On 28 July, a KVP camp was in Schlosspark Friedrichsfelde. The main entrance of the camp was blocked by a gate. A guard tent nearby was occupied by an officer who checked on incoming and outgoing motor vehicles.

Most of the soldiers seen there wore red epaulets, a small number had black epaulets. The total strength of the occupation of the camp was estimated 1,500.

- On 29 July 1953, a large KVP tent camp was seen in Schlosspark Friedrichsfelde.

25X1 [redacted] between 250 and 300 tents housing about 2,500
 25X1 soldiers were located there. About 40 trucks and 4 horse-drawn vehicles 25X1 were seen in the southern section of the park. No heavy weapons were 25X1 observed. There was lively activity at the camp. [redacted]

25X1 [redacted] Comment. It had previously been assumed that most of the KVP units transferred to Berlin belonged to the division in Prenzlau whose personnel consisted of soldiers from Saxony and Thuringia. No information is available at present to indicate the transfer to Berlin of KVP units 25X1 stationed in Saxony and Thuringia. It is believed 25X1 that the tent camp quarters KVPs in the strength of about one infantry regiment.

25X1 [redacted] Comment. [redacted] estimate is probably too high. It is probable 25X1 that units of the infantry divisions of Prenzlau and Prora may have been 25X1 or be employed in Berlin. A transportation [redacted] elements of the division stationed in Prora started to move to Berlin on 3 August.
 25X1 [redacted] Border troops, i.e. border police are permanently employed around Berlin.
